Play Cast Announced By Clinger

Casting is complete and rehearsals under way for the annual spring comedy at Brigham Young University, according to Morris M. Clinger, assistant professor of speech who will direct the production.

"I Like It Here," a delightful, light comedy, is scheduled to be presented April 5 through 7. It will be the sixth in the BYU Diamond Jubilee dramatic season.

Playing major roles in the production will be Dan Leegant, New York City, cast as the cosmopolitan Willie Wriggle; Leonard Rowley, Parowan, cast as Sebastian, a college professor with a weakness; Florence Stocks, Long Beach, California, cast as Sebastian's wife, Matilda, a woman without a weakness; LaRee Hales, Provo, pretty daughter of the family.

Richard Franks, Oakley, Ida., is cast as stuffed shirt David Bellow, and Chat Harris, Independence, Mo., will play romantic Brad Monroe. Supporting roles will be played by Lloyd Webb, Parker, Ariz., Robert Gilliland, Tooele, and Mary Ann Sorensen, Richfield.

Talent Tour ...
Campus Talent
Take Nevada,
So. Utah Jaunt

Top Brigham Young University talent toured Southern Utah and Northern Nevada at the beginning of spring quarter, according to Bob Keat, Overton, Nev., chairman of the BYU student program bureau.

Eight talented students and a faculty sponsor left Provo on March 19 for a five-day tour filled with shows to be given for high school, church and community audiences. Included in the group are students who have done outstanding work in the music, dance, and speech departments of the university.

Robert Smith, Provo, ukulele and guitar player, is master of ceremonies for the shows. Other students on tour include reader Lucille Rowe, Manti; Vocalists Betty Ross, Ogden, and Rex Johnson, Arlington, Va.; dancer Rial Owens, Burley, Ida., and pianist Carolyn Thompson, Mal

The five-day schedule will include performances in Delta, Fillmore, Milford, Beaver, Steamboat, George, and Enterprise. Nevada appearances will be at Virginia Valley high at Bunkerville, Moapa Valley high school, Overton and at Basic High school.

MINNIE AND HUTCH—The Cougars' potent duo, led BYU to its first national honors. Both will be members of the West All-Star team to perform in the Garden March 31.

Pres. Wilkinson's Talk Stirs U. S. Attention

Nationwide comment has been aroused by a brief talk which President Ernest L. Wilkinson gave during halftime of the final NIT game.

The crisp, manlike message deeply touched Al Helfer, Mutual radio broadcaster, and listeners throughout the nation. Elder Ezra Taft Benson later complimented President Wilkinson and observed that the missionary value of the winning team and the message was "incalculable."

President Wilkinson said: "May I first take this opportunity to congratulate our worthy and respected opponents. Coming to this tournament without any great acclaim or prediction, they have given a marvelous exhibition of rugged will power. We salute them for their courage, their tenacity, and their too frequent ability to turn defeat into victory. Except for these sterling qualities, Brigham Young University would never have had the privilege of playing them tonight."

"As for our own Brigham Young players, we want them to know that while we hope they win—the game is not yet over—we will be equally proud of them whether they win or lose. We commend them for their clear sportsmanship. We are grateful that no finger of suspicion has ever been raised to question their loyalty or integrity either to their Alma Mater, or, what is more important to themselves, a Mormon leader once said that he aimed to teach his people correct principles and then left them to govern themselves. Our basketball boys have been taught the principles in ~~the~~ university, as well as in their homes, and we are confident that wherever they go they will deport themselves in accordance with those principles. Neither drinking, nor gambling, nor even so-called "social betting" is a part of their code of ethics.

"We are thankful they have the simple faith taught by Brigham Young who founded this great university. In giving his first instruction to Dr. Karl G. Maeser, its president, he said: 'Dr. Maeser, I do not want you to teach even the multiplication tables without the aid and inspiration of the spirit of the Lord.'"

"And so, consistent with the spirit of those instructions, our Brigham Young players have a group prayer before each game, not a prayer that they will win, but that they may uphold the highest standards of sportsmanship and that each of them may do his best. They recognize that:

 "When the one great scorer comes
 To mark against your name;
 He marks not, that you won or lost,
 But that you played the game."

"We are proud of the way our boys play the game; proud also of Stan Watts, their coach, who in his quiet way has taught them the true sportsman's code. May the best team win, but may that team be the Cougars.

"In closing, let me express my

Torrid Cats Sweep NIT In Smashing Wins; Seek NCAA Grand Slam

by Dick Eickes

By exhibiting one of the most devastating attacks in NIT history, the Brigham Young University Cougars completely dominated the 1951 National Invitational Tournament. They wound up their week-long rout by downing the Dayton Flyers 62-43 in the final Saturday night before the largest Madison Square Garden crowd of the year, 18,379.

Not to our knowledge has any team in the 14-year history of the NIT won the coveted title more decisively than the Cougars at least in such a refreshing manner.

By winning the first of the country's two major national collegiate basketball championships, the State of Utah, the town of Provo, the Mormon church, and, of course, Brigham Young University have been brought into national focus. In addition, Roland Minson and Mel Hutchins have been acclaimed as two of the country's greatest cabasa stars—and a greater honor couldn't be more richly deserved.

Jerry Romney, Harold Christensen, and Dick Jones played great defensive ball in their rear guard positions while Jerry also repeatedly broke through for timely baskets. Joe Richey performed admirably as Minnie's runing mate. When he cooled off, Church Head's Russ Hillman would come in and ignite a fire. The Cougars won on team work.

Church Head's Message Spurs Cougars

A message from President George Albert Smith was delivered to the Brigham Young game champions just before they Seeded third in the tournament behind St. Johns and North Carolina State, the Cats were still about a 2 point underdog to St. Louis. But the betting man continued to run into difficulty as President Ernest L. Wilkinson called it "the most appropriate telegram, coming from the President of our Church, that I have ever seen." Here it is:

"COACH STAN WATTS AND ALL MEMBERS OF THE BRIGHAM YOUNG UNIVERSITY BASKETBALL TEAM,

"From the top of the Rockies I send my love to share my pride in your record. I have faith in your abilities. Play clean, play hard, play fair, play to win. God Bless you."

Thousands of other messages poured in for the pride of the west during the one week basketball classic. Hack Miller, Deseret News sports editor, reported that Stan Watts approached him before the final game with tears in his eyes. In his hand he held several dozen of the latest messages. They were from all parts of the west and from leaders of church, state, and business as well as the little fellows who have a tough time digging up the dough for a game ticket.

"How can you help but win with support like that?" Stan said.

appreciation to Pete Ashton of the P.A. Ashton Company and Ed and Dex Shriver of Shriver Men's Stores, at Provo, Utah, for their public service in bringing to Utah this broadcast of the championship game of the 'National Invitational Basketball Tournament. And as for Al Helfer, Sports Director of the Mutual Broadcasting System, who has enthusiastically broadcast the games, all we have to say is that if he will just give us the right closing score tonight, we'll have to consider him as the "Mythical Member" of the BYU team. Thanks very much, Al."

No Ad Contest This Quarter, Cox States

There will be no ad error contest this quarter, states Eldon Cox, UNIVERSE business manager.

The contest was originally scheduled to include spring quarter, but it was decided to conclude it at the end of winter quarter.

Mr. Cox stated that he would like to thank all of the merchants for donating the fine prizes and also to thank those students who participated.

Hales To Teach Night Class In Astronomy

The new Physical Science building at Brigham Young University will be the laboratory for evening course in astronomy to be taught during the spring quarter, according to Dr. Wayne B. Hales, professor of physics, who will teach the course.

Astronomy is "a natural" for evening classes, Dr. Hales said, because of the time required in searching out stars, planets, and solar systems. Facilities of the Science building will be utilized in conducting the course. Officially listed as physics 16, it will consist of classroom lectures concerning the universe, observation of solar system, and use of the telescope.

A study will be made of the atmospheric conditions which surround neighboring planets, and the possibilities of life on other worlds.

"In this day of rocket study and development," according to Dr. Hales, "which bring possibilities of life on other worlds, outer space conditions which must be faced in interplanetary travel, and considerations of other problems, should be helpful to those people who wish a general knowledge of the facts theories, and methods of astronomy. Interplanetary travel seems fantastic today, but it could be a reality

Dean Law Leaves For California Work

Dr. A. Reed Morrill, professor of education administration, has been appointed by President E. L. Wilkinson to serve as acting dean of the College of Education in the absence of Dr. Reuben D. Law, who will begin a six-month sabbatical leave next week.

Dr. Law will spend spring quarter at the University of California at Berkeley studying and writing on his forthcoming book on educational administration. During the summer he will continue his research and writing, and teach the summer session at the University of Southern California.

His family will accompany him to California, Dr. Law said. He will return to BYU campus in September.

tomorrow."

Held on Monday evenings from 7 to 9 p.m., the course will be particularly valuable to the layman wishing to know about astronomy, and the elementary teacher needing additional background in science.

Evening school registration will be held Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday during regular office hours in the extension division, room 180 Measer building. For the convenience of those unable to register during office hours, registration will also be conducted Wednesday from 7 to 9 p.m., at the same place.

A wide variety of courses is available. All courses carry university credit and will continue throughout the spring quarter, provided a minimum registration of 12 students in each class is reached.

LDS Group Joins Minnesota Religious Frats

An article in the Feb. 17 copy of the Minnesota Daily, tells about a new LDS group on the campus. This group was only recently formed, and is the youngest of campus religious organizations on the Main campus in Minnesota.

The group first met together last fall, and was the seventeenth religious fellowship on the campus. The faculty adviser is Wayne J. Anderson, an assistant professor of home life orientation, and a Mormon missionary in Switzerland, and Germany from 1928 to 1931.

BRIGADEIER

All members must attend regular meeting on Thursday, March 22, room 225 P.B. Plans must be made for the openhouse, which is to be held the following week. Youth party plans will also get underway. Dues night will be Thursday, March 23, before opening.

Friday, April 13, was chosen as the date for the Spring Installation. The theme will be "Rocky in Love." Ted Mosey was elected chairman of the event, and he will be assisted by Boyd Benton and Boyd Lake.

BETA PI

Omega chapter of Lambda Delta Sigma presented the program of Beta Pi meeting last Wednesday evening in the Smith building. Entertainment was under the direction of Norma Clark, Irene Thomas, and Lorna Duran.

"Mother Goose's Invention to Spring" was the theme of the entertainment, which turned out to be a melodrama depicting a slightly altered version of the old favorite, "Cinderella."

The characters were: Pages, Joan Grover and Bernice Polacy; Cinderella, Teresa Smith; the ugly sisters, Irene Thomas and Marlene Andrus; the Mother, Pauline Giese; Godmother, Nedra Tuller; and the Prince, Helen Bauman. Between acts second act music was played by Gay Wagstaff. The Lambda Delta Sigma sextet also entertained the group with several numbers, including their Sweetheart song.

The quarterly testimony meeting of the Beta Pi group was held in the Smith building last night. Lorna Mae Polack was in charge of arrangements.

O. S. TROVATA

Active members of O. S. Trovata joined with the alumni members of the organization for party activities Wednesday evening. Joanne Stringham was in charge of active arrangements. Colleen Nielson, Althea Sylvester, and Colleen Moser are formulating plans for the annual mid-semester to be held April 13.

Library Plans New Permit Policy For Spring Quarter

Temporary library card permits will cost students five cents each this quarter, according to Mrs. Lucile Thorne, circulation librarian. The library has been forced to alter its policy because students have abused the permit privilege.

"More than 450 permits were issued during the winter quarter," said Mrs. Thorne. "If students leave their activity cards home, they will henceforth be charged five cents for a permit enabling them to use the library on that particular day."

Mrs. Thorne went on to say that charging for permits would probably start students borrowing their friends' activity cards again.

"We want to make it clear," she continued, "that the person whose activity card number appears on the card will be held responsible for the return of the library books and the payment of a fine."

MIT Scientist Schedules Sigma Xi Talk

Dr. George Seatchard, professor of physical chemistry at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, will be the principal speaker at a meeting March 27 of the BYU chapter of Sigma Xi, national research fraternity, according to Dr. B. F. Harrison, secretary-treasurer.

Dr. Seatchard will discuss experiments that determine the properties of blood and plasma substitutes and make them effective in the various functions they serve within the body, Dr. Harrison said.

Fashion Trends

by Gloria Wallis

Smartly dressed coeds paraded into the fashion spotlight Tuesday, March 13, modeling their self-made garments at the annual dress review sponsored by the Home Economics Clothing and Textiles department.

Under the general direction of May Billings, Eleanor Jorgenson and Margaret Potter, clothing and textile instructors, the show was held in the upper hall of the Education building.

Carol Hansen, Provo, introduced narrators from the various sewing classes. Miss Hansen also issued in the style trends wearing a tweedy coat dress nipped at the waist with a copper belt. Copper, replacing gold and silver in accessory lines, was repeated down the front of the dress with smart buttons.

Project for girls in clothing and construction 1 was a wool dress. Marilyn Troop modeled her wool in a minute red check. A stand-up collar added interest to navy wool worn by Betty Jane Sallabury. The lightest of beige complimented Janice Madden's coloring with a dash of red accent to add color.

Marilyn Whiting chose aqua and a square yoke line on the bodice. Brown velvet edged finished a beige wool design made by Faye Capps. Melva Smith in yellow, Virginia Watkins in banker's grey and Dayle Thomas in aqua marine also modeled stunning fashions made in wool.

May Billings introduced the girls in her tailoring class in the part rose crepe afternoon dress. A tucked marquisette inset at the neckline added a final touch of smartness.

A tailored suit in purple gabardine worn by Rachael Morley introduced the suit division of the review. Paula Kiester chose a black check for her dressmaker's

Authentic Dances Given in Festival

Authentic folk and square dances were featured at BYU's 75th annual Folk Dance festival held recently in the Women's gym.

According to Mrs. Betty H. McTague, instructor in physical education and festival director, 220 students participated, including physical education majors and members of folk and square dancing classes.

Purpose of the festival, said Mrs. McTague, is to create fun for the participants as well as the audience.

Ruth Anne Jensen in moire belt, taffeta and Barbara Metcalf in silk shantung gave a cross section of what's new in fabrics. Yellow and green iridescent taffeta with net overskirts of yellow and green flecked in gold sequins made a stunning late afternoon gown for Molly Thompson.

Phyllis Kearsley stole the show with a three-piece ensemble. A redingote of bemberg sheer covered a sheath dress of lavender butcher linen. For informal attire Phyllis whips out a lavender bolero jacket to team with the dress. Her bolero is top-notch fashion for spring. Drapes were the interesting detail in crepe gowns modeled by Trilby Packard, Lillian Tanner and Donna Young.

Climaxing the dress review the display of formals and evening wear. Donna Buhler wore pink net and Sally Duncan displayed beige appliqued taffeta. Green, embossed organza was fashioned in a smart gown for Jean Frances. Dramatic red satin designed with a parade of tiny buttons down the front was worn by Norma Palmer. A black velvet cape lined with material from her dress, aqua brocade sating, made a smart ensemble for Mary Carol Hall.

ONE OF 200 girls who modeled self-constructed clothes at the Home Economics dress review is Jean Wachsmuth.

suit. Barbara Lu Nielson wore tweed and Racora Dixon fashioned her blue check in a sack jacket and slim skirt.

Arched hips completed the smooth lines in a grey suit constructed by Pearl Beck. Betty Taylor climaxed the suit display modeling a black broadcloth pyramides. Catching fashion-wise eyes was the yellow plaid taffeta lining.

A wrisp of net at the neckline made Norma Bullock "pretty as a picture in ebony tulle crepe. Miss Bullock's dress was included in the afternoon dress section of the show. Shirley Bullock fashioned her gown in bemberg sheer print with a lavender butcher linen jacket for coverage occasions. Pert Helen Johnson wore bouffant organza.

Joyce Potter in maltese crepe.

More Honors Heaped On Famous Cougars

New honors continue to pour in for the Brigham Young University Cougars, Skyline Conference and National Invitational champions.

The latest comes on the heels of their sweep of the Madison Square Garden classic. Both Roland Minson and Mel Hutchins were chosen on the tournament all-star team, and Minson was voted the most valuable player in the tournament.

Another top honor comes in a communique from the Buffalo Basketball Memorial auditorium which rates the Provoans as the "overwhelming choice as the best team to appear in the auditorium during the season." Brigham Young defeated Niagara University there 84-69 on December 2, in the first game of their pre-season barnstorming tour of eastern powers.

The Buffalo laurels are significant since 42 nationally famous teams played in the auditorium during the season. In addition, the basketball masterminds Mel Hutchins on its "All-auditorium" first team.

Other opponents of BYU looking back to haul out the orchids are Utah State and New Mexico. The Angies from Logan picked both Mel Hutchins and Roland Minson on their all-opponent teams and agreed "The Big B" was the outstanding player they met all season.

Minson and Hutchins also capped the major share of New Mexico limelight by landing first string berth.

These two ease earlier made every Skyline first team, while Hutchins was the choice of Look magazine and Sporting News for All-American first team, and Associated Press and United Press for third team.

Invitational Track Meet Readies Plans

Brigham Young has set the thirty-eighth annual Invitational Track and Field Meet and Relay Carnival for April 27 and 28, it was announced recently by Ed was R. Kishall, director of athletics.

The event is the largest track and field contest in the intermountain area. Each year Brigham Young extends invitations to compete to every high school and junior high school within 100 miles of BYU and to all junior colleges of the intermountain area. Schools from Utah, Idaho, Nevada and Wyoming always compete, and sometimes those of Montana, Colorado and Arizona.

The huge athletic carnival was started in 1911 by E. L. Gene Roberts, then director of physical education and athletics at BYU.

Each year the leading track and field stars of the nation are invited to participate in exhibition contests. The carnival boasts a long list of all-time records.

In the field, optimistically speaking, the Cougars will be up against great Oklahoma A&M and its vaunted defense, providing the Aggies get through the winner of the Washington-Texas A&M game. It'll be an uphill go all the way.

Who is BYU's LMOC?

For the past two years he has

by Dick Bick

BYU has had its share of great athletes, men who would have been classed as great no matter where they performed. Appropriately dedicating his athletic achievement to the rearing twenties is our popular tennis and golf coach, Fred W. "Black" Dixon, assistant professor of physical education and adviser.

During his four years at Brigham Young, Buck won 35 varsity letters in addition to a fresh letter in football. For three years Buck was a fullback on the varsity football team, good enough to be honored by all-conference rating.

When winter rolled around, he turned his talents to the hardwood where he played guard on the basketball team. Again honors rolled in and Dixon was a "must" on the post season all-conference teams. He was a main cog on the varsity for his entire four years. In 1938 he was head basketball coach here at BYU.

Finally spring sprung, and the versatile Mr. Dixon had to week double hard to be could do justice to both track and tennis. In the under sport he starred in the high jump and pole vault to win four varsity letters.

But it was when he waded a racket on the tennis court that Buck won his greatest fame. He was all-conference singles champion two years. He was the state singles championship four times and won the state doubles with his brother Don a total of ten times. He announced the Intermountain singles on three occasions and the doubles four times. On each occasion after he and his brother had won the Intermountain doubles, they went to Boston to participate in the national where they always made a good showing.

After gobbling up all of the Utah honors, Buck went to Idaho long enough to win two Idaho State championships.

Coach Dixon was also a member of the Provo baseball team. BYU didn't have a baseball team at the time, or Buck would probably have worked that in some how.

For the past two years he has coached his tennis team to the conference championships and are out to defend the title again this year.

Buck has a master's degree in physical education and has just returned from a six months leave of absence in West Virginia where he has been furthering his graduate work. Coach Dixon is a quiet, likable fellow going into his 23rd year of coaching at BYU. Prior to that, he coached at Weber High in Ogden.

BUCK DIXON — Ex-BYU athlete, great and veteran coach, is set for another spring at the helm of the Cougar tennis and golf teams.

only two points, 28-26. It looked as if it might turn into one of those heart stoppers. But a red hot band of blue and white came surging back to run the score to 36-31 midway through the second half. It was all over but the shouting.

Again Minnie came through with a 26 point performance to finish as top scorer in the tournament with 80 points in three games. The sensational Mel Hutchins did what most anyone would have said was impossible—hold the Flares renowned 67' senior, "Monk" Minnie to one field goal.

Minnie Rewarded

Without the slightest surprise to fans, players, and coaches, Roland Minson won the "Most Valuable Player" award. Much credit must go to Coach Stan Watts, the genius behind the scopes.

Next, the Cats plunge head long into the even rougher NCAA tournament—but win or lose the Cougars have proved their mettle.

Dixon Calls Tennis, Golf Team Tryouts

by Dick Ricks

This week marks the first organized practice for both the tennis and golf team, according to coach Buck Dixon, and help is needed.

The Cougars have a conference championship to defend in tennis while the golf team placed second in Western Division play last year.

Three lettermen are back to help defend the tennis crown. They are Dick Moody, conference singles winner the past two years, Lamar Rawlings, a stand-out during his sophomore year, and Dick Ricks, who talks a better game than he plays.

Missing via graduation are Dick Browner, conference singles runnerup who teamed with Moody to win the conference doubles last year, Bruce Liddard, Jack Whipple, John Hyde, and Charles Kamaucha. Bob Kirkpatrick, a sensational sophomore player last year, has been called into the armed forces so will probably see some action there.

This means that six men from the 1950 championship team are gone. Several strong replacements appear in the persons of Harold Christensen, son of Dr. P. A. Christensen, and Paul Salisbury, both former BYU High players.

Golf lettermen who are back for another fling are Paul Davis, Lynn Bell, and Richard Nelson.

Lost to the army are Shafter, Bowers and Bob Swanson. Bolstering the three lettermen are several fresh players who showed well last year and a Weber College transfer.

Track Team Needs Ya 'Joe,' Turn Out Now

Some Brigham Young track men have been packed around in the snow for a couple of weeks, but Coach Clarence Robison thinks there are about 50 sets up.

In the school who could help out the Cougar cause. He has called a meeting of all track men and students interested in track for Wednesday at 4 p.m., at the Stadium House.

Robison, a former Olympic distance champion, said the big get-together will be the official kick-off for the X winter operations. Equipment will be issued, lockers assigned and training schedules set up.

Spring Nite School Sign-up Mar. 22-24

Registration for spring quarter night school classes were announced this week by Harold Glen Clark, extension division director.

Registration will be in 180 Mason building, March 22, 23 and 24. Students will be able to sign up during regular school hours the first three days and until noon on the final day. In addition, evening registration from 7 until 9 p.m. will be conducted March 21.

All courses carry full university credit and are taught by regular faculty members. Each class meets one or two evenings during each week of the quarter. Class work will start the week of March 26, Dr. Clark said.

Veterans are eligible for evening classes, but in order to continue training under the GI bill they must be in continual training before July 25, 1951.
